The Lebanese Baccalaureate Program is a rigorous program available to all students in either an English or French track for core subjects. French or English is taught as a third language depending on the track. In both tracks, History, Geography, and Civics are taught in Arabic at certain levels, and the study of Arabic literature and language is required. In their second year, students are tracked into a humanities or sciences curriculum. Students are assessed by comprehensive exams set by the Lebanese Ministry of Education at the completion of Grade 12. The grading system is on a 100-point scale.

The College Preparatory Program is a three-year course modeled on a traditional high school program. The language of instruction is English. Required courses include Math, Sciences, English, Social Studies, and French with Arabic language at varying levels. The grading system is on a 100-point scale.

The French Baccalaureate Program is a demanding curriculum reflecting the same course of study available in France. All core subjects are taught in French. With completion of this program, students can communicate in at least three languages. Students are assessed by French comprehensive exams at the end of the course. The grading system is on a 20-point scale.

The International Baccalaureate Program is a demanding two-year curriculum with a rigorous assessment component. English is the language of instruction for all IB courses. Students are assessed by IB exams at the end of the two-year program. The grading system is on a 100-point scale.

Grading System
IC does not rank students. Grades are awarded on a 100-point scale, or a 20-point scale for French Baccalaureate students.
